

Academics is a strong factor for corporate success

The academic backgrounds of the world's top CEOs

Highest academic degree obtained, split by region

QUALIFICATIONS OF INDIVIDUALS IN KEY CORPORATE POSITIONS

Linkage between years of schooling with earnings

For the idea-based economy or intelligent economy, if we ignore academics, what other source is there to develop people?

Anyone who pursues an academic degree should aim to learn from the process and grow themselves; and not aim to get a degree for the sake of finding a job.

The process of learning creates a Growth Mindset.
People with Growth mindsets are ultimately successful, including the Corporate world.
